MEMORANDUM

- TO: Laura E. Lyons Interim Vice Provost for Academic Excellence
- VIA: Peter Arnade Peter Arnade Dean, College of Arts, Languages & Letters
- FROM: Amy Schiffner Amy Schiffner Director, Interdisciplinary Studies Program

SUBJECT: Program Modification BA Interdisciplinary Studies: Linguistics

SPECIFIC ACTION REQUESTED:

It is requested that the Vice Provost for Academic Excellence approve a Program Sheet and Banner Program Code for the existing Interdisciplinary Studies (IS) major equivalency in Linguistics.

RECOMMENDED EFFECTIVE DATE: Fall 2023

ADDITIONAL COST: N/A

RATIONALE/PURPOSE OF PROPOSED CHANGE(S):

The rational/purpose of the requested program modification for the IS BA: Linguistics include:

- 1. Support student success with articulated IS BA: Linguistics requirements through a standardized university program sheet;
- 2. Improve student tracking and data collection to inform programmatic decisions by creating a IS BA: Linguistics banner program code;
- 3. Increase program visibility by having the IS BA: Linguistics program sheet publicly available on the OVPAE, Interdisciplinary Studies and Linguistics Department websites.
- 4. Enhance student advising experience by having the IS BA: Linguistics requirements articulated in STAR. (i.e. GPS, Academic Essentials and What if Journey);
- 5. Reduce manual inputting of course requirements in STAR for the IS BA: Linguistics to better support student eligibility for student aid and scholarships.

BACKGROUND:

Interdisciplinary Studies offers major equivalents in a number of fields, and provides students with the ability to pursue academic and professional fields not otherwise represented at UHM.

The IS BA: Linguistics pathway was established in 2007 by faculty with discipline expertise in Linguistics, Second Language Studies, Interdisciplinary Studies, Psychology, and Communications. The IS BA: Linguistics supports students with interests in linguistic research, language documentation, language teaching, language planning, treatment of language disorders, cognition, speech synthesis and recognition, and various other topics or fields.

Linguistics includes a variety of subjects: the articulation and acoustics of speech sounds (phonetics); distinctive speech patterns (phonology); word formation (morphology); sentence-level grammar (syntax); and conversations and narrative (discourse analysis and pragmatics). Linguists have also been interested in questions of language change (historical linguistics), language in society (sociolinguistics), language acquisition and language processing in the mind (psycholinguistics), and mathematical and computer applications of linguistics (computational linguistics).

Since its 2007 inception, the IS BA: Linguistics has used internal advising sheets only with the absence of a program sheet or program code. At the present time the absence of a program sheet and program code disadvantages students in their ability to track degree requirements and their time to graduation on STAR. It additionally disadvantages students in needing to have requirements manually inputted in STAR to ensure student aid eligibility.

DETAILED LIST OF CHANGE(S):

- 1. Replace internal advising sheet for linguistics with approved program sheet.
- 2. Create a banner program code for the IS BA: Linguistics

DETAILED LIST OF CONSULTATION WITH IMPACTED PROGRAMS:

The Linguistics Department Chair and Faculty created the proposed program sheet in consultation with the Interdisciplinary Studies Director. Close consultation also occurred with the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs in the College of Arts, Languages & Letters.

ACTION RECOMMENDED:

It is recommended that the Vice Provost for Academic Excellence approve a Program Sheet and Banner Program Code for the existing Interdisciplinary Studies (IS) major equivalency in Linguistics.

ATTACHMENTS:

- 1. Existing Internal Advising Sheet
- 2. Proposed Program Sheet for BA in Interdisciplinary Studies: Linguistics

LINGUISTICS

Interdisciplinary Studies offers a B.A. in linguistics, the study of language from a comparative and scientific perspective. Linguistics includes a variety of subjects: the articulation and acoustics of speech sounds (phonetics); distinctive speech patterns (phonology); word formation (morphology); sentence-level grammar (syntax); and conversations and narrative (discourse analysis and pragmatics). Linguists have also been interested in questions of language change (historical linguistics), language in society (sociolinguistics), language acquisition and language processing in the mind (psycholinguistics), and mathematical and computer applications of linguistics (computational linguistics). In examining language in its various manifestations and from a broad comparative perspective, linguists acquire a deeper understanding of both individual languages and human linguistic abilities, and they can draw numerous inferences about history, society, and extra-linguistic behavior. A major in Interdisciplinary Studies with a focus on linguistics provides a basic education to students interested in linguistic research, language documentation, language teaching, language planning, treatment of language disorders, cognition, speech synthesis and recognition, and various other topics or fields. Linguistics also helps students improve their linguistic repertoire and develop analytical skills.

Linguistics majors aim at a solid understanding of the structure of language (including phonetics, phonology, morphology, and syntax) as well as a knowledge of supplementary topics such as language history, language and society, language acquisition, etc. They require the following classes in linguistic analysis:

LING 320	General Linguistics (3)
LING 410	Articulatory Phonetics (3)
LING 420	Morphology (3) Pre: LING 320 (or concurrent) or consent
LING 421	Introduction to Phonological Analysis (3) Pre: LING 410
LING 422	Introduction to Grammatical Analysis (3) Pre: LING 320 or consent

For a broader perspective of the field, IS students with a focus on linguistics should select two more courses from the following listing:

- LING 331 Computer Applications (3) Pre: Ling 320, concurrent or consent
- LING 344 Languages of the World (3) Pre: LING 320 or consent
- LING 346 The Philippine Language Family (3) Pre: B or better in LING 102 or 320, experience with a Philippine language, or consent
- LING 347 Pidgin and Creole Languages (3) Pre: LING 102 or consent. (Alt years) (x-listed as IS 347)
- LING 412 Psycholinguistics (3) Pre: one of LING 102, 302, PSY 100 or SPA 300 or consent
- LING 414 Introduction to Linguistic Anthropology (3) Pre: ANTH 152 or consent (x-listed as ANTH 414 and IS 414)
- LING 415 Language & Gender (3) (x-listed as ANTH 413)
- LING 416 Language as a Public Concern (3) Pre: LING 102, 320 or consent
- LING 423 Cognitive Linguistics (3) Pre: LING 102, 320, PSY 100, ICS 111 or consent
- LING 430 Animal Communication (3) Pre: LING 102, or consent
- LING 431 Computational Modeling (3) Pre: LING 102, LING 320, PSY 100, or ICS 111; or consent
- LING 441 Meaning (3) Pre: LING 102, 320 ICS 111 PSY 100 or consent
- LING 445 The Polynesian Language Family (3) Pre: Ling 320 with a grade of B or better, or consent
- LING 451 Induction of Linguistic Structure (3) Pre: Ling 102 or 320 or consent
- LING 470 Children's Speech (3) Pre: LING 320

In close cooperation with the Undergraduate Advisor of the Linguistics Department and a faculty member of the Interdisciplinary Studies Program, linguistics students further select classes of 15 credits in at least two other

2500 Dole Street, Krauss Hall 116
